Vocational Center Discussed at School Board

The principle item of interest on the agenda of last night's meeting of the Carmel Unified School District Board of Education was the proposed area-wide Vocational Education Center. The Board with "great enthusiasm," expressed by Dr. Newton, authorized the District to proceed in a study to determine the feasibility of a vocational education center to be located on the campus of Monterey Peninsula College. The proposed center would serve the Carmel, Pacific Grove, and Monterey Unified School Districts, and has been the subject of informal discussion for for the past several months.

The proposed vocational center would serve the following functions: (1) to provide advanced vocational training, as in the case of electronics and automible mechanics; (2) to take advantage of the centralized location of the college with respect to the teaching of foreign languages not offered in the curriculums of the individual high schools; (3) to develop a coordinated program of advanced studies in the sciences and creative arts; (4) to provide a centralized course of study for advanced students in the field of music, with the proposed formation of a student orchestra, band, and choir to be composed of students from each of the districts.

Another item of interest on the agenda of last nights meeting was the adoption of the proposed preamble to the Board Rules adopted at the last meeting with regard to the supplying, possession or use of illegal drugs by students:

"It is the intent of the Board of Education, upon adoption of the following rules, to offer protection and assistance to every student in the District. No intent of prejudgment or punitive action beyond the administration and maintenance of aproved school discipline is to be inferred."

Among other items were the retirement of Mrs. Beatrice L. Tavernetti, French teacher at Carmel Middle School. Mrs. Tavernetti was instrumental in organizing the foreign language department at the Junior High School. Mrs. Roxana Blanks proposed that the Board send a special letter of thanks to Mrs. Tavernetti. Also approved by the Board were the resignations of Ralph L. Blumenthal, Katherine Sans, Patricia Schultz, Caroline Wright Smith, and Michael Williams.

Also approved was the hiring of Mr. Henry Avila for the position of music teacher at Carmel High School, as the replacement for Mr. John Farr, who is giving his full time to the music program of the elementary schools. Approval was also given to the hiring Mrs. Elaine Green as elementary teacher for the Carmel Unified School District.

Open House at Corporation Yard

With the weather clear and comfortably warm . . . not a cloud in the sky . . . and well over 200 persons in attendance, the grand opening Saturday of the newly completed Corporative Yard at Junipero and 4th was absolutely perfect.

People began arriving well before the ceremony was scheduled to begin to take the limited number of available seats. The many late arrivals found it necessary to stand or sit on the walls in the general public section.

Exactly on time, the ceremony began with Mayor Steve Grant making opening remarks and introducing the Carmel High School Padre Band and Choir who entertained the audience with "This is My Country." Afterwards, the Knights of Columbus and the Boy Scouts from Carmel presented the colors. The American Legion of Carmel raised the colors as the entire gallery stood while the United States and California State flags were hoisted to the top of the flag pole. The National Anthem was sung and the pledge of allegiance voiced, led by former Mayor Herbert Heron.

After the invocation by the Reverend Lloyd Johnston, All Saints' Episcopal Church, Mayor Grant gave a brief dedication address in which he said that "everyone was welcome in Carmel" and "they would be accepted for what they are and what they can do, rather than what they have."

Senior Grand Warden, Eugene S. Hopp, M.D. of the Grand Lodge, F. & A. M. of California, performed the Cornerstone Laying Ceremony. In the casket to be sealed in the cavity just to the right of the main entrance to the police station, he placed many pertinent documents and pictures for historical purposes. Included were items such as pictures of the present City Council, list of the city workers, a copy of the Pine Cone's 50th Anniversary issue, and many others.

After the benediction by the Reverend Alexander Bryans, minister of the Church of the Wayfarer, the Mayor reminded the audience that they were invited to take a tour of the police station and street department complexes and enjoy cookies and coffee as refreshments.

Burglars Attack Two Liquor Stores

Some very thirsty burglars attempted to enter two Carmel liquor stores early Wednesday morning but succeeded only in the case of the Cork n' Bottle where five or six bottles of Martini mix were reported taken after a complete inventory was held yesterday.

In their search for something to drink, the burglars tried Ted's Liquor Store on Dolores first, breaking two front door windows but apparently could not turn the double door latch. They moved around the corner to Ocean Ave. where the Cork n' Bottle dutch door yielded after the glass was broken and their thirst was quenched. No cash was taken and the affair is now under investigation by the Carmel Police Department.

"JANUS"

Talented Cast at Studio

by Duke Everts

Five very talented people are currently appearing at the Studio Theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings in a comedy entitled "Janus", authored by Carolyn Green. The plot is a twist on the eternal triangle and is a bit thin. But, in its favor, it has some very funny lines and situations. The play revolves around a shipping magnate, his naive wife (naive at 40?) and her amour, a teacher of French in Andover, Massachusetts. The setting is Greenwich Village in the middle of summer in a cold-water flat.

From the moment the curtain opened until it closed, Anita Tonn had the play in the palm of her hand. She is an excellent comedienne who knows how to control her portrayal. She proved to us that she is an acomplished actress. It is such a pleasure to see someone, assured of her role and who can take the smallest line and give it the fullest of meaning. As Jessica Gilbert, a wife and mother from Seattle, Washington who two months out of the year collaborates with the French teacher in the writing of sexy historical novels, she was most convincing.

Bob Lotz, last seen in "Arsenic and Old Lace," this time portrays the wronged husband, Gil Gilbert. He gave a portrayal worthy of his long stage and film career. No matter what part he portrays, in whatever production he is in, he plays it to the hilt. Any play that he is in, is better for his being in it.

Dick Vreeland, as the paramour of Mrs. Gilbert, seemed a little disturbed the evening we saw him. The veteran of many Peninsula productions we know that he can do better. He seemed apart from the rest of the cast. We are sure that as the play progresses he will become more at ease.

Ed Shinbrot as Mr. Harper, the internal revenue agent who tips over the apple cart, was the type of "revencoer" that we would hate to have auditing our return. Shinbrot is a natural comedian. In his past performances he proved that he knows what he is doing and this time was no exception.

In the role of Miss Addy, a money hungry literary agent, is Emma Jane Hansen. She is nothing short of superb. Judging from the reaction from the Studio audience after her first scene, she was liked by everyone. They did everything short of giving her a standing ovation. This was her first time on stage and she handled her part like a veteran.

Accolades to Michael Keller, the director of this little opus. We don't usually throw flowers at the feet of the director of little theatre, but it's about time someone paid some complements to Mike Keller.

The set for this production is perfect. In other words, water comes from the sink tap, the on-stage lights illuminate the area they are supposed to illuminate and steam came from the hot coffee. Bob Evans, Jr. is responsible for all of the sets at the Studio and he never fails.

Allen Yates acts as stage manager. He must have an easy time of it since he is working with such a talented cast.

LINES FROM THE STUDIO

What makes "Janus" such a funny comedy? Incongruity, maybe. Here's an essentially "nice" woman, happily married, whose husband discovers her sharing more than the typewriter with her co-author of historical novels. Seems they've been doing this every summer for years and stashing away so much loot the IRS is investigating them. Now, men, get this:—the wife tires to convince her startled spouse that it's just a playful romp of no consequence to their marriage! She's so darn innocent about it that he . . . well, we won't spoil your fun. The tax man is made of sterner stuff until he is hoisted on his own petard. In the hands of our expert players, "Janus" explodes with wit and laughter. Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, dinner and show $5.50, show alone $2.75.

Lyceum Summer Music Camp Auditions Slated

The Music Committee of the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula is presently processing audition applications for its third annual Music Camp.

Interviews for applicants will be held May 13, and successful candidates will attend classes at Asilomar for the three-week period June 26 to July 14.

The students will receive lectures, private lessons, discussions, ensemble playing as well as attending rehearsals of the 100-piece American Symphony Orchestra League's Conductor's Workshop Orchestra. The Summer Music Camp is being made possible by a generous grant from the Monterey Jazz Festival and through the cooperation of the American Symphony Orchestra League.

The Summer Music Camp has been developed for the talented music student, not necessarily the most advanced student. Applicants will be judged by representatives from all local school districts, as well as Fred Schlichting, coordinator of the program for the Lyceum.

Eligible are instrumental students (piano excepted) who will enter grades 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, or 13 next fall.

Information regarding the Summer Music Camp may be obtained by phoning the Lyseum office, 624-2403, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, between the hours of 12:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Portrait of Virginia Conroy by Richard Lofton

Portraits Exhibited By Richard Lofton

Portraits by the late Richard Lofton will be exhibited at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art through May 31.

Richard Lofton spent his life time evolving, in terms of color, line, volume and shape, a way of penetrating the surface appearance of human beings, and reaching the depths and the truths about them. During the last few years of his life his style became richer, his color freer, his lines more intuitive than ever before. Like a great orchestra whose instruments play together in powerful harmonies to create tonal beauty, his skills (hand, eye, heart and brain) reached a high place of expression that produced this series of masterpieces.

They are portraits of his friends and fellow artists of Carmel and Monterey, all of them talented in their own right, all of them bearing the gift of art in their own lives. Richard Lofton painted them with respect, sympathy and insight. They were painted one after the other during a three month period in the summer of 1962. The same burst of energy produced them all. The series belongs together as a group since the mood was consistent. His creative power was blazing and the paintings done quickly—about three of four hours were enough. Once painted, he never touched them again. There was no "going back over" anything or "touching up." By this time he trusted his intuitive powers completely—he often said, that in a sense he felt that they were "being done" through him, and he tried to keep "himself" out of the way as much as he could.

He rejected concious "reasoning thought processes". By this time though he had spent a lifetime, often painfully, working out painting problems. His achievement at the end of his life was a complete, triumphant synthesis of a lifetime of experimentation, resulting in the powers, the beauty and the truth of these paintings.

He is a very great artist and all America will be proud of him one day.

Yet the Star Is Shining. . .

"Twinkle, twinkle little star
How I wonder what you are — Up above the world so high. Like a diamond in the sky."

You don't have to wonder very long what Ruth Marion McElroy is! Her life has been, and still is, a series of dramatic adventures; some thrust upon her by the acting profession, others produced by her own inner need to love and be loved.

A fearless woman, she cuts straight through the true nature of things. In the highest sense, Ruth is love-in-action — And that is her pass to the many joys that God had made for his creatures.

Ruth deftly calls herself "the widow woman", although the lonely life is not, for her. She and her husband, a China sailor who plied his ship up and down the Yangtze River for the United States Navy as a lieutenant commander, begat three children. Ann Fry, now working for Douglas Aircraft in Santa Monica, produced four offspring. Mary, (Mrs. Howard Williams) added five to the clan. George, Mary's twin, born on April 1, boasts of eight well-behaved youngsters. "There's no fooling about that!" quipped Ruth, recalling with a smile the family jokes that were played on April Fool's Day.

One of the granddaughters, her namesake, Ruth Marion Fry, lives with "Granny" in an old Comstock house on the ocean side of San Antonio at Eighth. Young Ruth recently played in "Ah Wilderness" and opened April 21 as "Estelle" in "Waltz of the Toreador" at the Golden Bough. She likes her life with grandmother. "Granny is living in today's world. She's full of pep and vitality—no foggy ideas—she blends the old with the new! Ruth told me that she loved to bring her friends home. "Sometimes I think they like Granny better than they like me. They talk theatrical shop, and she makes them feel so good. If someone is feeling low and a bit on the tired side, she is most likely to say, "Darling, how wonderful you look! Where did you get your face lifted?' She's the greatest —!"

In relation to youth, Mrs. McElroy shows herself as a woman of profound understanding and fervid enthusiasm. Few people are as sensitive as she to the sharp contrast between yesterday and today's world. "Life always moves to the same exciting rhythm," she said, but now there are different things to do, and different things to do them with."

While some parents use money to keep in touch with their children, Ruth believes that love, lots of it, is the answer. Her fresh approach to life, on and off the stage, brought to my mind an old aphorism of Lady Byron's: "To treat men better than they are, is the surest way to make them better". "And that goes for the long-haired hippy bit, too." my hostess added.

"I don't believe there would be so many college drop-outs if the good professors did the job they were hired to do. Instead, they take off for Europe and the far places to do important research, leaving behind them a trail of student teachers. This may be fine for self-development. But what happens to the student?" Her voice spoke with compassion. "He has made a considerable investment in his education. Time. Money. Energy. Is he really getting a fair deal?" We agreed that today there are many people who think, and rightly so, that our young boys and girls are being short-changed.

Born in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1901, Ruth is now and always will be a star in her own right. Her father, George Francis Marion, a dynamic personality and a famous actor of the old silent movies, directed "The Merry Widow" for Henry W. Savage, created the part of Chris in "Anna Christy" and was a friend of Greta Garbo". He retired in Carmel until his death in 1948.

Ruth's brother, George Francis Marion, Jr. wrote for Warner Bros., RKO, and Paramount studios before he left "all the fleshpots of Egypt" in 1939 to write musical comedies in New York. His first great hit was "Too Many Girls", an Abbott production: then there was "Early to Bed," Marinka", and many others.

It was evident that Ruth admired her father and brother although she made it plain that professionally she had not been influenced by anyone. "Oh, momentarily, perhaps," she said, shrugging her shoulders, "maybe Ginger Rogers one moment and Katherine Cornell the next." It was easy to see that it is her very own self, the essential Ruth Marion McElroy, that is the hallmark of her acting.

When Ruth was eight years old, maybe nine, her parents sent her to school in Italy. She spent four years in Rome at the Convent of the Institute of the B. V. M., "130 Via Nomentana," she said, "It was a very interesting experience."

With a mere six months of drama behind her at the Theatre School of the Golden Bough, founded by Edward Custer in 1933, Ruth made her first professional appearance in "The Drunkard", its original start being held in the Denny Watrous Gallery, which once housed The Pine Cone and now The Studio Theatre.

"You learn to act by acting," she said, "but I had a wonderful teacher, too. You've probably heard of her? Ellen Van Bolkenberg, the well-known actress. She was really a genius! Then there was our director, Maurice Brown, who produced "Journey's End". Who could ask for more? They don't come any better than that —."

One of her favorite roles in which she starred was "The Vinegar Tree" directed by James Leander Crowe at the Golden Bough in 1953. At the time of the interview she was playing "Arsenic and Old Lace" at the Studio Theatre. Ruth has also done some TV acting, summer stock in Canada, and still goes away during July and August for about eight plays of summer stock in Travis City, sixty miles or so from the northern tip of Michigan. "That's the way I earn my Christmas money," she chuckled, "besides I have to work off some of this energy!" The high tide of her popularity never seems to wane, perhaps because she possesses that priceless gift — an inexhaustible capacity for giving pleasure to others.

Coffee was served from the kitchen, where a Benneweis circus poster and a rooster from The House of Sweden spouted colors of red, green and blue on the walls and we sat at a long table in front of a window that commands the view. Ruth said, "I sit here and watch the sea . . ."

The performance was over. It was time for me to go. Ruth Marion McElroy sidled skillfully along beside me, past a wide brick court yard and on to the gate. Springy, almost on tiptoe, her pixie-like face beaming, she raised one hand in farewell. "Now, Dorothy," she grinned, "you know how I make my elderberry wine—."

"Canadian Bacon-and-Bean Cookout"

Canadian Bacon-and-Beans make an ideal Cookout deluxe for the weekend when hungry youngsters gather in the patio.

What to serve guests and family for Saturday or Sunday cookouts needn't be a problem. A happy inspiration is the great Canadian specialty, with an American accent. It is called Canadian Bacon and Beans.

It is a simple dish to prepare on your outdoor patio grill. Brown sugared, overlapping slices of thick Canadian bacon and canned pineapple rounds, enclosed in a wrap of quilted foil to seal the juices, grill to caramel-glazed succulence. Simmering in a skillet over the same charcoal fire are canned pork and beans which gain a tantalizing sweet-and-sour spiciness when enhanced with onions, golden raisins and dark syrup. A Citrus-Peanut Dressing for a Tart Fruit Salad makes an ideal teammate. Garlic French Bread is always in demand, but you might also have Cinnamon Sugar Balls for the youngsters. Rose Pickled Eggs are nice to munch on, and you could also have Grilled Bananas as a substantial addition to the menu. Canadians love Blueberry Pie and you'll find it easiest of all to bake a frozen one, found at the grocers. Plenty of strong coffee with apple juice for the youngsters. Voila what a feast in your own backyard!

Canadian Bacon-and-Beans

(Serves 12)

One half cup salad oil; ½ cup finely chopped onion; 4 (1-lb. 15-oz. each,) cans pork and beans; 2 cups light raisins; ½ cup dark cane syrup; 24 thick slices Canadian bacon, (about 2½ lbs); 24 slices canned pineapple, drained; ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed; quilted foil, 14-inch heavy duty.

Place oil in large heavy skillet. Add onion and two cans pork and beans. Spread evenly; sprinkle raisins over top. Add rest of beans, spreading evenly; drizzle syrup over all. Cover and place on grill; simmer about 1 hour.

On an 18-inch strip of quilted foil, overlap bacon slices alternately with pineapple; sprinkle with brown sugar and wrap securely into a flat, oblong packet. Place on grill for 45 minutes, turning often for even cooking. When ready to serve, remove cover from beans and stir through once. Serve hot with the grilled bacon and pineapple.

TART FRUIT SALAD WITH CITRUS-PEANUT DRESSING

Arrange a large salad bowl with canned grapefruit and mandarin orange sections; add watercress sprigs and shredded green cabbage. Toss with the following

Citrus-Peanut Dressing

(Makes 1½ cups)

Four tbsps. orange juice; ¼ cup peanut butter; ½ tsp. prepared mustard; salt and paprika to taste; 1 cup sour cream; ½ tbsp. grated orange peel. Blend all together and chill.

Garlic French Bread

Mash 1 garlic clove to a pulp; then blend and cream well with ½ cup softened butter. Partially cut French bread into thick slices; do not cut through. Spread garlic butter between slices. Wrap loaf in foil, place on grill in warm spot, not over coals. Turn several times. Keep wrapped until serving time.

Cinnamon Sugar Balls

Open refrigerated biscuits and cut each biscuit in thirds; roll each piece into a ball. String on

Peaceful Acapulco

by Mrs Carl Haskell-Hanson

A year before Pearl Harbor trouble brewed and, what appeared to be brewing, caused by brother and I to think of warm, peaceful, far-away places. And so, in January, we booked round-trip passage to Acapulco: at that time little known but the closest thing to another world from San Francisco.

We landed on an unbelievably hot brilliant day. Bourganvillae flamed against stark white walls: the land-cradled Bay a brilliant cobalt. Quickly the Wells Fargo Office found us housing high above the Bay. This was a huge room with no windows — just a door at either end and always left open for ventilation. And through these, by day and night, paraded quietly multiple people and dogs for the months to come.

We bathed at night in the flourescent splendor of an unoccupied Caleta Beach — just as we did at Hornos Beach, still flanked by the Fort and Prison from a Spanish era. Brightly brilliant were the days and yet the nights seemed even more so. By days there were startling contrasts: flaming fourganvillae against stark walls: the blue flashing of Pacific waters against coral beaches. The nights were superb: great cradels of darkness filled with millions of stars caught by the sea in flashing lights. We saw Caleta and Hornos beaches before the great masses of tourists came: we ran in the precarious surf of Piere de la Questa before such knew a building.

And what we saw and smelt and felt at that time is still true today—for the hot bright sun shines and the great moon rises. Ever bright is the bourganvillae — just

MUSSEL QUARANTINE IMPOSED

Doctor Richard S. Fraser, Director of Public Health for Monterey County stated today that a quarantine of mussels for human consumption has been established by the State Department of Public Health.

The quarantine has been placed on the entire California shore line, including our coastal waters. It will be in effect from May 1 through October 31, 1967, and will prohibit the taking or selling of mussels for food during that time. However, mussels may be used for bait during this period, provided they are broken open at the time they are gathered and are placed in containers labeled "Mussel may contain Poison. Unfit for human food."

Doctor Fraser stated that signs are being posted along the coastal areas of Monterey County advising of the quarantine.

REPORTS FROM RLS

By Chandler Meloy

Stillwell and Arsenio Honored in Speech

Donald Stillwell and Joseph Arsenio, both Seniors, were honored by placing high in the California State speech championships held this past weekend at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

From the 2,500,000 students enrolled in speech in the State in public, prviate and parochial schools, the top 400 individual speakers and debaters have been selected through competition. 42 of the top speakers in each event competed, many from schools with 150 or more on the "first string" speech team. In this superior competition, Don Stillwell placed fifth in Oratorical Anaylsis, while Joe Arsenio just missed the semi-final round of Extemp speaking by 3 points.

Golf: Stevenson repeated as CAA golf champions for the third straight time as they took the first three individual medals, and tied for fourth. Steve Barlow won his first major tournament of the year, carding an 80 on the incredibly tough Spyglass Hill course, followed by George Kelley with an 82, Fred Manning (who double bog'd the 18th) with an 83, as Jack Booth tied for fourth with an 84. Palma took second in team honors. Jeff Hildebrand had an 87 for 8th place. The next day, to put the topper on the Stevenson win, Coach David Wilson took the CAA Coaches title which had been held by Junipero for two years.

Track: Larry Kuechler, went to the Santa Cruz Invitational last Saturday. As there was no 880 run, he entered the mile for "exercise'. Result: Against top central and northernm California competition the third fastest mile run in California this year. (4:21.8). Steve Covell placed 6th in long jump in the same meet. If Kuechler keeps this up there may be a new rule that the Stevenson School stop "exercising" their runners during track meets.

Baseball: Leading the CAA league with a 5-1 record, the "Pirates" have gone baseball happy. Coming from behind last Friday, they took Mora 4-3 in the extra inning, to give Pat Rauber his 5th win of the season. Last Monday they "stole" a game from Pescadero, 10-2 with 15 stolen bases, five of them by Mike Greene (he averages two a game).

Swim: Getting sweet revenge, the Stevenson swimmers defeated Menlo 49-46 last Friday to win the rubber match between their "arch" rivals. Captain Tim Shea was sensational, and incidentially just missed going to the state finals this year by .2 of a second in his speciality, the 50 yard freestyle. Pete Stremmel also qualified for the State tryouts in diving.

Grades: Arlen Chase of Pebble Beach again led the school as he compiled a perfect score for the 5th straight time this school year. Joining Chase this time was 9th grade stand-out David Haynes who also had 100.0

Some 83 boys were on the honor roll in all classes, with 24 making Faculty Honors of 95.0 or better.

In addition to leading the High School with a 9th grader, the Freshmen led the whole school with 22 on the Honor Roll, and they dominated Faculty Honors with 11, almost half of those with this superior rating. The Junior class placed second in both numbers on the honor roll and in Faculty Honors, which was a major improvement for the whole group.

Faculty Honors: Arle Chase, David Haynes, Gary Novak, Terry Talbot, Eric Haas, William Hague, Mark Kaminski, James Doyle, Robert Tibghman, Robert Howard, Chris Wrather, Arthur Lara, John Cann, Lonnie Foy, Ray Cleary.

Joe Mitter, William Smith, Tim Talbot, James Russell, William Kondrat, William Atkins, Larry Kuechler, Tim Donohoe and Hok Yin Leung.

Next Week: We will have reports on the student body elections, a review of the winning tennis team (they defeated Foothill College this week), a report on the Speech Honors Assembly, and a report of the Glee Club who will appear before the Carmel Rotary Club this week.

Coming: Saturday is the annual Junior-Senior Prom to be held at the Carmel Valley Country Club, and the CAA Track Championships this Friday to be held at MPC starting at 2:00 P.M. The public is invited to watch the track meet which will include York School, Junipero, Palma, Holy Cross, Pescadero, Monte Vista and the co-champion Stevenson "Pirates".

The Carmel Youth Center received a nice letter this week from a former member, Sandy Dancy, who is now in Vietnam. He said that every thing was fine but that he was being kept so busy that he had not had much of a chance to write anyone but hoped that his friends would keep the letters coming as he heally enjoyed hearing the news from home.

Irene Hastings Hatton

Word has just been received of the death last Sunday of Irene Hastings Hatton, a longtime resident of the Carmel Valley. She passed away after a short illness in a rest home in Los Angeles. She had recently lived in Arcadia near her daughter, Mrs. Irving S. Parker (Harriet Hatton) of San Marino.

Mrs. Hatton was born in Milwaukee, Wisconsin and at an early age moved with her family to San Francisco. She attended schools there and graduated from what is now San Francisco State College. She will be remembered by many as principal and teacher at the Carmelo School in the Carmel Valley. She taught before her marriage to the late Frank D. Hatton and then after Mr. Hatton's death, she taught a second generation, many, the children of her former pupils. She was active in P.T.A. work at Sunset School and Girl Scouts and was a member of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel, for many years.

In addition to her daughter, Mrs. Hatton leaves two grandsons, Timothy Hatton Parker and David Stanley Parker and nieces and nephews, several of whom reside on the Monterey Peninsula.

The Complete Gardener

. . . a regular diet of information having to do with plants

The home gardener grows his various crops, from lawns and trees to flowers and foods, mostly for the enjoyment they afford. But he is equally concerned about crop failures as is the farmer who makes growing his business. One contributing factor to a poor crop is the ever present insect population which invades the premises from planting time to harvest. To attempt any control of this menace the gardener must use common sense in his cultural practices, be able to identify the pests, and have some knowledge of insecticides. There are soil insects and flying insects; sucking bugs and chewing bugs. The insecticides you now possess may control but a few of the many kinds that now live within your boundaries. Those who maintain a clean, well-fed lawn and garden will require less need for pesticides. When weeds and trash frequent the place breeding is encouraged, and when desirable plants are undernourished they are open to attack by insects, snails, slugs and diseases.

Following such a moist April it's certain that we'll find an over abundance of slugs and snails. Now is the time to exercise your keenest vigilance and to exact your strongest control measures. Use a variety of baits so that there will be no escape by immunity. Piles of meal among bedding plants will fend off the attackers. Pellets strewn along your borders will catch the invaders. If you've noticed young snails on the leaves of plants spray with liquid metaldehyde or sprinkle meal on the foilage. Baiting on the soil surface is not sufficient. Many of these pests enjoy the early stages of their lives on plants and descend to the soil only when the weather gets unbearably hot. The snail you get now will not be around to beget thousands of others later on.

This is also the time to protect pine trees against the Red Turpentine Beetle which, when fully active, can infest and destory even the oldest and largest specimens. A strong solution of chlordane, with a spreader-sticker added, can be sprayed on the lower trunks to the point of saturation. Apply now and repeat in August or September. If your pine already shows signs of dying call a pest control operator without delay.

Perhaps the biggest bugaboo, if you'll excuse the term, is the aphid, which comes in several colors and thrives on many plants. When a mild infestation is first spotted a sharp stream of water will knock off many of these sucking pests, but full control can be expected only by spraying or dusting with one of the numerous insecticides. Spectracide and malathion are the most effective, in that order. Use no stronger than directed to avoid burning tender foilage. Always spray or dust on calm days when the temerature is below 75 degrees.

Pest controls, like fertilizers, should be made routine in your gardening schedule. Please read the label thoroughly before you open the container. And follow the directions.

Next week we'll touch upon the subject of container growing.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

This week have the AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BERTRAND RUSSELL, for which we have had several requests, and these requests now constitute it's waiting list. This book must be the first of a series because it takes Russell only to his forty second year. It is frank and open, much told in letters, no holds barred. The writing is delicate and delightful. The few illustrations are photographs.

PRINT IN A WILD LAND seems at first to be an undecipherable title, but an examination of the book by John Meyers shows it to be an anthology of articles printed in early western newspapers. Some of the authors of these early works are Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Ambrose Bierce, and Eugene Field. Running a newspaper in those days wasn't easy.

Millie Considine is the wife of newspaper columnist Bob Considine. She has done a book entitled JUST A MINUTE, MRS. GULLIVER, which is an account of her life and travels with her famous husband. She must have met all the famous people in the world, for her book is about all of them and what they did together at this place or that.

THE BRIDGE OF LOVE is by Grace Fletcher. It is subtitled The Story of a Mariage that Inspired a Country, and truly it is that. The country is Japan, the marriage that between Merrill Vories and Maki Hitotsuyanagi. Merrill Vories founded the Omi Brotherhood in Japan, he married charming Maki, and later he became a Japanese citizen. Together the Vories worked for the education and betterment of all with whom they came in contact. New Book by Martin Katz

Martin Katz, son of Mrs. Ann Katz of Carmel, has recently published a new book on Mikhail N. Kathov, a well known nineteenth century Russian intellectual. Kathov was most important during the formulation of governmental policy in the period of "counter-reforms" during the reign of Alexander III during the period of the 1860's.

Martin grew up in Carmel and attended Carmel schools and is a graduate of Stanford and the University of California at Berkeley. He is now a professor of European History at the University of Alberta in Canada. To write this book which is entitled "Makhail N. Kathov — A Political Biography 1818-1887" Martin did research in Finland, the Soviet Union and Western Europe.

The Harrison Memorial Library will have a copy of the new book which, by the way, is dedicated to Martin's mother, Mrs. Katz.

skewers, leaving about ½ inch between balls. Cook over hot coals, turning constantly until browned and completely done, about 10 min. Quickly push off biscuits into melted butter; roll in cinnamon-sugar mixture. One tube refrigerator biscuits makes 30. The young people love to make these over a campfire, but they can have their own hibachi for this fun-food.

Rose Pickled Eggs

Six eggs, hard-cooked and shelled; ½ cup Rose wine; ¾ cup canned beet juice; ¾ cup vinegar; 1 bay leaf; ¼ tsp. allspice; ¾ tsp. salt; few grains white pepper; 1 garlic clove, crushed.

Place eggs in quart jar. Combine remaining ingredients; heat, do not boil; pour into jar. Cool; cover and refrigerate overnight. For a large group have at least one egg apiece.

Grilled Bananas

Simply place desired number of bananas right in their skins on grill. Cook about 8 minutes, turning 3 times. Open and sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar. Slightly green bananas are better than too ripe ones. Have a large wheel of Canadian Cheddar Cheese with assorted crackers for a grand finale.

White Oaks to Have Summer Musical Season

White Oaks Theatre, which was brought back to life early this year by a valiant "save-the-theatre" drive, announced that it would be able to have a 1967 summer musical season. This was made possible by two recent anonymous donations from individuals in Monterey County.

According to the Theatre's Co-Producer, Barbara Cook, the monies were given with the agreement that the Board and staff of White Oaks Theatre pursue every avenue to secure the additional support needed to sustain the theatre's program in the future. The two individuals made it clear that they would not be willing to come to our aid again in a major way. This means we must continue to pursue foundation, corporate, and individual subsidies while doing all possible to earn our way through the box office, season subscription sales, and touring engagements.

Although the specific shows are yet to be selected, four or five major productions plus an opera are scheduled. The opera will again be given the last week of the season with the other shows going into repertory as soon as possible. That means performances will be given Tuesday through Sunday.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the resident company for the summer should call the Theatre for a private audition and interview.

and encouraging to read such a story and know that it is true.

Harrison Salisbury was sent by the New York Times to cover the entire periphery of China and report upon what he saw. This he did, making a 25,000 miles journey which took him all around that immense country. He started in Tokyo and ended in Yokohama, his farthest point being Moscow with many stops along the way. His book ORBIT OF CHINA is the result. It is a collection of the articles he wrote during and after his trip, many of which have created controversy.

We are getting close to normal at Sunset, so new books will be streaming in to circulation very soon. Check the lists on the bulletin board. For my money, THE EIGHTH DAY is still the best book I have read in a long time. By Thornton Wilder, you remember. If you miss it, you'll be sorry!
